EDW. STOCKMASTER FUNERAL SATURDAY

Died Early Today in Cranberry Township

Edward Stockmaster, 83, died at his home in Cranberry township, Crawford county at 3 a. m. today of a heart attack following two weeks' illness.

A native of Huron county, he was born Oct. 23, 1862, the son of Anthony and Catherine (Langyahr) Stockmaster. He was a farmer and resided at Bismark until his removal to Cranberry township in 1913.

Mr. Stockmaster was married in 1902 to Julia Waechter who died in 1937. Surviving are four sons, Clarence, Henry, Sylvester and Anthony, all of Cranberry township; nine grandchildren; a brother, William of Attica; a half brother, Anthony of Bellevue and a half sister, Mrs. Rose Ruffing of Reedtown.

Friends may call at the family home. Funeral services will be held Saturday 10 a. m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church at New Washington by the Rev. Henry Waechter of Toledo. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

HARVEST HAMPERED BY STORAGE SPACE

Bins Overflow with Heavy
Wheat Yields

SPRINGFIELD July 25—A scarcity of grain storage facilities today was forcing Clark county farmers either to delay their harvest or store their wheat in barns and other farm buildings until facilities are available.

William J. McDonald, president of the Clark county farmers' association here said that all grain elevators within 25 to 30 miles of Springfield were filled, although the harvest was not nearly over because of heavy grain yields.

Hamlet vs. Girl Shows Debated For GI Theaters

BY GWEN MORGAN
WASHINGTON, July 25.—The question is, do G. I.'s love only "garter" shows, or would they like an honest-to-gosh production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" with sultry Libby Holman as queen?

The USO camp shows have just such a production lined up, and all that stands between it and the men in Europe is a war department colonel who thinks Shakespeare is "over their heads."

Director Robert Breen, ex-G.I. and a former director for the late John Barrymore, thinks the Colonel's dead wrong and he's lined up plenty of congressmen to prove it.

"The War Department has been playing down to the guys," Breen said. "Their attitude is that the only things G. I.'s think of are pin-ups."

"Of course, there should be plenty of froth and 'getting Gertie's garter' shows, but I contend they should get some real theater, too."

He has told congress about it, too. Chairman Elbert Thomas, D., Utah, of the senate military affairs committee and Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., have written the USO camp shows saying they are "100 per cent for 'Hamlet.'"

Serious Entertainment Urged
"It's time some really important and serious entertainment was sent over," the senators said, "and we hope you can do it as soon as possible."

Breen is worried. The Colonel turned down the first serious drama ever to be played in Europe on tour to G. I. audiences, Katharine Cornell's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street"—which finally got a war department okay in spite of the Colonel.

"The Barretts" was an eye-opener for G. I.'s. Breen said, and the G. I.'s appreciation gave Katharine Cornell the biggest thrill of her life. Eighty per cent of them have never seen a real legitimate stage play before.
