

Charles Schreiner, a familiar character in Bellevue and Thompson township, died Wednesday night in the Bellevue lock-up. He was well educated and at one time possessed considerable property, but whiskey brought him to a pauper's death. He was born at Weaver's corners.

Robert Setchell, who has resided on a farm near Bellevue ever since the year 1843, died Thursday, aged 75 years. Funeral took place Sunday morning; interment in the Flatrock cemetery.
